CABBAGES RUNNING TO SEED.

This is from Mecklenburg County, N. C.: "I bought one pound of Wood's Early cabbage seed last fall, and sowed them from September 23 to October 1. Out of 25,000 plants I do not think over 1,000 will head. They are all running to seed. Why is this?" It is no fault of the seed, but of the overgrowth made in the fall. The fall and early winter were very mild, and the cabbage plants got an extra fall growth and the check to such plants in transplanting will always result in many running to seed. Had the seed been sown later and the plants grown just large enough to winter, there would have been less of this trouble. Then the plants may have gotten a check by dry weather in the fall. Plants sown the early part of October and never allowed to get checked by dry weather, but kept growing till transplanted, will be less apt to run to seed.—W. F. Massey, in the Progressive Farmer.

PLAN FOR BOOSTER CLUB.

Gardendale, Tex., June 18.—Plans for the formation of a commercial club were made here last night at a mass meeting of farmers and business men held at the school house. A temporary president and secretary were elected, and at the next meeting the club will go into definite organization.

Good judgment usually shows up the day after.

STARTED WITH A RUSH.

The great twelve-day realization sale of A. M. Waldrop & Co. started off with a rush yesterday and far exceeded the fondest expectations of the firm. At an early hour quite a crowd had gathered, and as the reporter walked through the store the many clerks were busy as bees waiting on the customers. Everything is marked in plain figures so that every one may see for themselves the price of the article, which was a great help in disposing of the many customers who had come to take advantage of the many rare bargains offered. The people of Bryan have long since learned that when A. M. Waldrop & Co. advertise a sale that genuine bargains may be found in the latest up-to-date stock of guaranteed quality. Knowing this they await these opportunities and are quick to take advantage of them. Mr. Waldrop told the reporter that the outlook was for the largest sale in the history of the store and that specials would be added to the sale from time to time at even lower prices than offered on the opening day.

I. & G. N. ENGINEER HERE.

Conferring With Officials Relative to Street Improvements.

Engineer Jarvis of the International & Great Northern Railroad was in the city today to confer with Mayor Harris and the city engineer in regard to what will be required of his road in the way of improvements to the streets over which the tracks of his road are laid.

The property owners on West Burleson street, over which the main line of the road runs, held a meeting in the Commercial Club room this morning, Mayor Harris being present, for the purpose of conferring on the above matter. The result of the conference was that a petition would be presented to the road to include in the improvements, concrete curbs and gutters for drainage. As it is now, the road grade is very high and the water runs down from same and into the yards of the property owners. Concrete curbs and gutters would protect them.

The mayor is having the city engineer prepare plans and specifications for the improvements in accordance with the road's franchise granting it street privileges. These plans will be submitted to Mr. Jarvis and also to a meeting of the city council tonight for approval.

ODD FELLOWS' MEETING.

There will be a regular meeting of the Odd Fellows' lodge tonight. Election of officers and other important business.

HANDLEY ORGANIZES COMMERCIAL CLUB

Handley, Tex., June 18.—The Handley Commercial Club was organized here Tuesday night, officers elected and plans for town development discussed. C. L. Kearby was elected president; Joe E. Brewer, secretary-treasurer, and Claude McForehand, publicity director.

His Labor Saving Device.

The late Charles H. Britting, proprietor of the New York actors' restaurant known as the "Little Hall of Fame," took a keen interest in popular trends and movements of all kinds. Mr. Britting thought little of scientific management and efficiency engineering. He said one day of an efficiency engineer: "Blank is a fool, and I thought he'd go broke, but, by jingo, the fellow has deceived me. He has discovered a labor saving device, and his address will be Easy street from now on."

"Good boy, Blank!" said an actor. "And what labor saving device has he discovered?"

"An elderly widow," Mr. Britting answered—"an elderly widow with a million who has consented to marry him."—New York Tribune.

Strange Race of Ancient Britons. The races of human kind which away back of history's records passed like clouds over various parts of the earth one of the most puzzling to ethnologists is that of the early bronze age men who dwell in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and are supposed to have constructed the special forms of stone circles whose remains are now found there. These men differed significantly from all the prehistoric races previously determined in Britain. They were remarkably broadheaded, and their average stature was only five feet three inches, as shown by skeletons. The British neolithic race was markedly long headed, and the bronze age race, which built the round tumuli was also long headed and tall.

Doing Good Service.

Bill—Is that watch your father gave you ten years ago still doing good service? Jim—Yes. I pawned it again today for the twentieth time.—London Opinion.

When Mother Is Needed.

As a general thing, a girl never needs a mother so much as when she gets an idea that she has a perfect figure.—Galveston News.

An Absolute Vacuum.

What would seem to be an absolute vacuum may be produced in an extremely simple manner. There is employed a test tube (a tube of glass closed at one end), which in this particular case must be composed of a kind of glass that melts only at a very high temperature. Into the tube is poured molten glass of another kind which melts at a comparatively low temperature. When the latter has cooled, thus forming a solid mass completely filling the tube, a suction pump is attached to the open end of the tube, and heat is then applied until the softer glass inside is again melted. The next step is to withdraw the molten glass by means of the pump, enough being left to close the end of the tube completely, when it is allowed to cool once more. As no air can enter the space left vacant by the withdrawal of the molten mass, a perfect vacuum, it is believed, is produced there.—St. Louis Republic.

Study Your Moods.

People ruled by the mood of gloom attract to them gloomy things. The hopeful, confident and cheerful attract the elements of success. A man's front or back yard will advertise that man's ruling mood in the way it is kept. A woman at home shows her state of mind in her dress. A slattern advertises the ruling mood of hopelessness, carelessness and lack of system. Rags, tatters and dirt are always in the mind before being on the body. The thought that is most put out brings its corresponding visible element to crystallize about you as surely and literally as the visible bit of copper in solution attracts to it the invisible copper in that solution. Every thought of yours has a literal value to you in every possible way. In whatever mood you set your mind does your spirit receive of unseen substance in correspondence with that mood.—Prentice Mulford.

Plain John Smith.

In Latin it is Johannes Smithus; the Italian smooths it off into Giovanni Smithi; the Spaniards render it Juan Smithus; the Dutchman adopts it as Hans Schmidt; the French flatten it out into Jean Smeet, and the Russian sneezes and barks Jonloff Smittowski. When John Smith gets into the tea trade in Canton he becomes Jovan Shmitt; if he clambers about Mount Hecla the Icelanders say he is Jahnne Smithson; if he trades among the Tuscaroras he becomes Ton Qu Smittis; in Poland he is known as Ivan Schmitti; should he wander among the Welsh mountains they talk of Jihon Shmidt; when he goes to Mexico he is booked as Joniti F'Smitti; if of classic turn and he lingers among Greek ruins he turns to Ion Sniakton, and in Turkey he is utterly disguised as Yoe Seef.

Why She Left.

With some families a flitting, if not quite an everyday affair, is at any rate an annual event, but it is different in the country, where most folks give up their houses only when leaving the village for the earth. It was, therefore, a surprise to a country house owner whose house was to let to receive an application from a woman who had had another house in the same village for some years. Terms were considered suitable and the bargain was being fixed up when the landlord asked her what was wrong with her present home. "Oh," was the reply, "I've nae faut to fin' wi' the hoose at a' it's raie comfortable, an' I'm sweer to leave it, but ye ken I've never paid you rent." She is still house hunting.—Glasgow News.

A Personage.

She loomed big in the eye of the public and occupied no inconsiderable space in the community. Weighed in the balance, she was never found wanting nor could any accuse her of lightness.

Her husband declared that she was altogether too much for him.

Her banker found in her a woman of substance.

Her pastor deemed her a well rounded character.

Her admirers called her a great lady and the women all called her fat-Lippincott's.

Children's Eyes.

It is not at all uncommon to consider a child stupid, blame him for lack of interest in his studies, or even to punish him for outbursts of temper, when defective vision is the only cause. Medical inspection of school children has shown that 15 per cent are suffering from bad eyesight, undiscovered until the school doctor calls it to the attention of the parents.—Woman's Home Companion.

Spoiled His Appetite.

"Every bit of food on this table," said the serving lady to Lamson as he sat down to eat at the church supper. "Was cooked by your wife."

"Oh, I don't mind," rejoined Lamson faintly. "I'm not a bit hungry, anyway!"—New York Times.

Russia's Forests.

Russia has 464,500,000 acres of forest. That is to say, more than one-third of the whole country is covered by trees, and there are four acres of forest to every inhabitant.

All in His Head. Instructor—Mr. Smith, kindly name the bones of the skull. Student Smith—Well, sir, I've got them all in my head, but I can't think of their names just now.

He who has once done you a kindness will be more ready to do you another than he whom you yourself have obliged.—Holmes.

COULD SCARCELY WALK ABOUT

And For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst."

I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework.

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui, I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

I fattened up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

Cardui is purely vegetable and gentle-acting. Its ingredients have a mild, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, sallow cheeks, fresh and rosy.

Cardui has helped more than a million weak women, during the past 50 years. It will surely do for you, what it has done for them. Try Cardui today.
